

Ms. Stringer's Third Grade ELA/Social Studies

Week of January 27-31, 2020

"I Can" focus for the week:

- I can identify and use irregular verbs.
- I can use contractions appropriately.
- I can use the steps to write a procedural text.
- I can learn new vocabulary by using the Frayer model.
- I can discuss ways communities depend on each other through Economic Interdependence.
- I can identify the theme of a biography.
- I can use text evidence to prove answers to questions.

Monday:

Classwork:

Small group reading-Martin Luther King texts– Use text evidence to answer questions
Learn steps of procedural writing
Introduce spelling list: Contractions
Work on Martin Luther King, Jr. project
Irregular Plurals– Grammar Workbook
Homework: Read your biography, Review your spelling words a few minutes each night
Make sure you have your biography in class each day.

Tuesday:

Classwork:

Small group reading-Martin Luther King texts– Create a timeline
Brainstorm Procedural Writing Topics, Choose Topic
Work on Martin Luther King, Jr. project
Social Studies Weekly, Week 14, Economic Interdependence-Group Discussion
Activity using vocabulary words
Homework: Read your biography, Worksheet

Wednesday:

Classwork:

Read own biography in class
Begin Procedural Writing Piece– Introduction and Materials Needed
Work on Martin Luther King, Jr. project
Irregular Plurals– Grammar Workbook
Homework: Read your biography

Thursday:

Classwork:

Read own biography in class
Procedural Writing: Begin to write the steps of how to do something
Begin Biography Poster: Fancy Title, Why person was important
Social Studies Weekly, Week 14, Economic Interdependence– Question sheet
Homework: Read your biography, Review spelling words for test tomorrow

Friday:

Classwork:

Read own biography in class
Biography Poster: Childhood of Biography person
Spelling Test over Contractions
Procedural Writing: Write the steps of how to do something
Worksheet: Irregular Verbs
Homework: Finish reading your biography. You must bring it to class every day next week.